Achievements

Online Railway Reservation

Completed end to end case study of online railway reservation system along with swagger and logger.

System using springboot with angular as user interface

This application consisting of two roles i.e Admin and User where admin have main control over system. Admin add and updates all the information such as train travel and departure details, ticket fare amount. The user of the system should first register for any interaction with the system. Once registered he/she will be provided with a username and password for user to log in. After logging user can perform operations like booking ticket, cancelling a ticket. A person can check train timings, fares and search for train availability.
